

THE JEFF CAHILL EARLY CAREER TEACHER AWARD 2014

Congratulations, Sarah Rose.

Professor Lyn Beazley at the STAWA Future Science conference on Friday 5th December 2014 presented Sarah Rose, Tom Price Senior High School science teacher, with the Jeff Cahill Early Career Teacher Award.

A Murdoch University graduate, with Bachelor Degrees in Science and Forensics, Sarah has been teaching science since 2011.

She was selected as one of only 5 students to undertake Professional Internship with the Western Australian Police Force, working with the Crime Division.

During this time Sarah decided to pursue a career in Education. She completed her final practicum at Lynwood SHS who offered her a science teaching position in 2011. Sarah currently teaches Upper School Chemistry, Upper School Human Biology and Year 10 Science Enrichment at Tom Price SHS.

During 2012, Sarah was nominated for the West Australian Education Awards - Beginning Teacher of the Year Award and was recognized as a State Finalist, a tremendous achievement for any teacher.

Mr Eric Godfrey, Head of Department Mathematics and Science, Tom Price SHS, nominated Sarah for this award. Eric, in his testimonial, concluded, “Our students are lucky to have such a passionate Science teacher, delivering quality lessons. Sarah is a proud Scientist and Teacher, and is always willing to share her knowledge with others.”
